LOWER KING STREET STREETSCAPE UPDATE

As part of the work for the Lower King Street Streetscape, the City of Charleston will install a brick crosswalk and set underground traffic control conduit across King Street at Broad Street beginning the morning of Monday, July 13th. This work will require King Street to be blocked on the northern side of the intersection at Broad Street. The construction will be completed and the intersection at King and Broad will reopen for traffic by the end of the day on Friday, July 17th.

During construction, the portion of King Street between Queen and Broad will temporarily allow two-way traffic for access only to the merchants and parking lots in the block of King between Queen and Broad including parking lots for Berlin's Men's Apparel, Berlin's for Women, Tellis Pharmacy, and the County Parking Garage exit.

Through traffic traveling to King Street south of Broad will be detoured West onto Queen Street, then South on Rutledge and East onto Broad Street where travelers can turn right onto King to continue South.
